Netiquette for Chisholm Bluestreaks!

What is Netiquette? It concerns how you conduct yourself while on the Internet. Online courses are based on the premise that students learn best in a community. However, some things don't change- the practices of courtesy and respect that apply in the ordinary classroom also apply online, and require even more attention. In the online classroom the instructor plays an important role, but this is a different role than most instructors play in the physical classroom. You'll see a shift in the way classes work. However, some things don't change: the practices of courtesy and respect that apply in the ordinary classroom also apply online, and require even more attention.

Here are some guidelines*:

- Participate. In the online environment, it's not enough to show up! We need to hear your voice to feel your presence, and we especially need your comments to add to the information, the shared learning, and the sense of community in each class.
- Be Persistent! Remember that we're all working in a fairly new environment. If you run into any difficulties, don't wait! Send an email immediately to your instructor, email the online help desk, or post the question to your fellow classmates. Most problems are easily solved, but we have to hear from you before we can help.
- Share tips, help, and questions. There are no dumb questions, and even if you think your solution is obvious, please share it by posting it on the Bulletin Board or other communication tool provided by your instructor. If there is not a place to interact with other students, politely ask your instructor to create a student to student discussion board.
- Think before you press the SEND button. Did you say just what you meant? Now will the person on the other end read the words? While you can't anticipate all reactions, do read over what you've written before you send it.
- Be Clear! Remember that we can't see the grin on your face when you make a sarcastic comment, we can't see the concern on your face if you only say a couple of words, and we can't read your mind and fill in the gaps if you abbreviate your comments. So help us "see" you by explaining your ideas fully.
- Ask for feedback! If you're not sure how your ideas and comments will be taken, ask! Remember there's a person on the other side. If you disagree with what someone has said, practice all your communication skills as you express that disagreement.
- Don't be Inappropriate. Any derogatory or inappropriate comments regarding race, gender, age, religion, sexual orientation, are unacceptable and subject to the same disciplinary action that they would receive if they occurred in the physical classroom. If you have concerns about something that has been said, please let your instructor know.
- Be Honest. Plagiarism, cheating and other violations of ethical student behavior are serious actions in a learning community. Students who abuse the online learning system are subject to the Chisholm Student Code of Conduct.

Tell the class about yourself!

We haven't really been shaking hands for some time now, so shake out a move to introduce yourself!

After everybody is introduced to one another we will attempt to practice
one another's moves and will say their name.

This might be really hard!

SYLLABUS DAY:

Who LOVES syllabus day? I remember when I was a student, the first week of school was a special one.

We did not do ANY work on syllabus days when I was in high school.

Our experience will be different. The syllabus is online on our google classroom. It is also available in paper.

We are going to read the classroom syllabus.

What to look for:

- Rules?
- How should we treat each other?
- What is our role in the classroom?

ACTIVITIES:

Write a daily writing.

Mr. Boehm reads the syllabus to the class.

Students will work on their goals for this class.

Quiz on the syllabus (to be taken at the same time as reading, or after).

Cause I Ain't Got a Pencil

by Joshua T. Dickerson

I woke myself up
Because we ain't got an alarm clock
Dug in the dirty clothes basket,
Cause ain't nobody washed my uniform
Brushed my hair and teeth in the dark,
Cause the lights ain't on
Even got my baby sister ready,
Cause my mama wasn't home.
Got us both to school on time,
To eat us a good breakfast.
Then when I got to class the teacher fussed
Cause I ain't got a pencil.
